

My Dover Basketball Years

Playing basketball for Dover High School was a dream come true. Wearing the orange and black and playing for Coach Pat Luciano helped shape me as both a player and a person. Some of my greatest basketball memories—and friendships that would last a lifetime—were created during those years.

Basketball gave me much more than wins and losses. Because of Dover basketball, I gained three lifelong friends—Kevin Touhey, Michael Gruber, and David Loeb. We were inseparable. We played basketball together, hung out together, and did just about everything together. Those friendships became one of the greatest gifts basketball ever gave me.
